The Brisbane Broncos' are looking good, thanks to Multicap!

The clients at Multicap's Kuraby Day Service are keeping the Bronco's looking good. Since February, Kuraby Day Service clients have been washing the mud, sweat, and stains from the jerseys of their beloved Brisbane Broncos'.

Each week the jerseys are dropped off at Kuraby to be laundered before returning to the Broncos for their next game.

Laundry day at Kuraby is loads of fun for all the clients involved, twenty four jerseys, seventeen pairs of shorts, lots of physio towels, hours of soaking, and six loads of laundry later the Brisbane Bronco's playing gear is as good as new.

Multicap Chief Executive Officer, Joanne Jessop, says that working with the Broncos' on this project has been a wonderful opportunity and a great way for our clients to learn new skills.

"The excitement and joy that our clients get from washing the boys' jerseys is wonderful to see, they love being a part of their Broncos' team," Ms Jessop said.

For Multicap Kuraby clients knowing their favourite players', Darren Lockyer, Justin Hodges, and Multicap's own ambassador, Nick Kenny, are wearing the jerseys they wash every week is so exciting for them.

"Local support and awareness make a big difference in the way people with disabilities participate in their community, and Multicap's partnership with the Brisbane Broncos' is helping raise awareness of Multicap," Ms Jessop said.

This partnership also provides an opportunity to promote Multicap and fundraise at the Brisbane Broncos' upcoming home game against the Gold Coast Titans on Friday, 15 July 2011 at Suncorp Stadium.

So if you'll be at the game, come and find out a bit more about Multicap and how you can get involved.
