Monte Lupo reveals beauty of the Peacock

Monte Lupo Arts will unveil its latest works created by artists living with disabilities at its Plonkin' Peacocks exhibition at the Clovelly Estate City Cellar Door from 21 April to 17 May 2010.

The Plonkin' Peacocks exhibition showcases painted and ceramic works created by disability services provider Multicap's supported employees, exploring and capturing the beauty of the flamboyant peacock.

Multicap chief executive officer Joanne Jessop said the exhibition would give the public the chance to see how talented the Monte Lupo artists were.

"Our artists have won a number of awards and have their works on display in several galleries and numerous council regions throughout the state," Ms Jessop said.

"Multicap is proud to unveil the Plonkin' Peacocks exhibition, and I invite everyone to discover the amazing talents of our Monte Lupo artists, and enjoy a glass of wine or two at the wonderful Clovelly Estate City Cellar."

Monte Lupo Arts is an Australian disability enterprise established by Multicap in 1991 to provide a career path for people living with a disability who wish to be involved in an area encouraging creativity and artistic expression.

Today Monte Lupo Arts employs 29 artists living with a disability.
