Go retro at Monte Lupo Christmas exhibition

Step back in time this weekend at Monte Lupo's Retrograde Exhibition.

Ten artists with disability and three mentoring artists will showcase their vintage art as part of the exhibition at Monte Lupo Café & Gallery Banyo on Saturday, 2 December 2017.

Studio Manager Cheryl Baker said the exhibition featured vintage-inspired handmade pottery.

'Our artists have been working hard behind the scenes creating everything from a flamingo planter, a pineapple jug, a fondue set, hula girls, go go dancer sculptures and so much more,' she said.

'It was such a fun era and I think this shows in the work our artists have created.'

Monte Lupo gives people with disability a chance to express themselves through art, providing valuable therapy and skills development.

'With the right assistance, Monte Lupo artists gain a special sense of purpose, creative expression and engagement with the wider community,' Cheryl said.

Along with the retro pottery exhibition, the car park will be transformed into a vintage suitcase market.

'Members of the local community and Brisbane artists will be selling a range of vintage items, adding to the retro theme of the day,' Cheryl said.

'It's a great opportunity to start your Christmas shopping or just spoil yourself.'

Along with great food, there will be entertainment by local musicians and an eclectic instrument collection.

Retrograde is open from 9am to 2pm at Monte Lupo Café & Gallery, 217 Tufnell Rd, Banyo.
